

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A detonator protector including a housing fitted with an end cap at one end thereof and a plug at another end thereof, and at least two chambers disposed in the housing, one chamber being of sufficient size to receive a detonator therein, that chamber being disposed inside another of the chambers, at least two of the chambers being formed with a plurality of holes along a longitudinal length thereof.